WEST MINOT.

Man Found Shot.

Sheriff Stevens and Coroner Doe of Auburn went to West Minot, Wednesday, to investigate the death of Nathan Downing of that place, whose dead body was found at noon in the woods near his camp.

Downing's body was found by Chas. Allen at a point about 80 feet from the highway and 70 feet from the camp in which the dead man lived. Downing lay face down upon the ground, his arms folded under his head and his black hat on the ground about 15 feet away. Beside him was a Hopkins & Allen shot gun with a loaded cartridge in the chamber, while there was an empty shell a short distance away.

The fact that there were many broken bottles upon the trees in the vicinity where the body was found and that one broken one was still perched upon a tree leads to the theory that Downing was in the habit of engaging in target practice at that point, using bottles for targets and that, possibly, he was accidentally shot in this way.

Schools Fail in Fundamentals.

Several hundred graduates from colleges in the class of 1913, both men and women, when put to the test by Edward Bok, of the Ladies' Home Journal, showed a startling inability to write a simple, intelligent business letter. The young men fared a trifle better than the young women, but after sixteen years of schooling, the results in grammar, spelling, punctuation and quality of English, were as a whole exceedingly bad. About a dozen theses were obtained, and while in some cases, these had been marked 100 by the college instructors, in each one of these perfect theses there were not fewer than six misspelled words, and in three cases over a dozen misspelled words. In an article in the Outlook, under the title "Is the College Making Good?" Mr. Bok is compelled, with these letters before him, to give a negative answer.

The test reveals a weakness, not simply of our colleges, but also of our whole educational system. Indeed, we should say that this particular weakness is primarily of grammar and high schools or preparatory schools, rather than of the college. If a child doesn't learn how to spell and punctuate and observe the simple rules of grammar in the earlier years of school life, there is no great likelihood that he will learn later. One-third of those who wrote Mr. Bok would not have received a passing mark in English in a high school test. The trouble is that our grammar and high schools are so loaded with a succession of facts and impractical subjects, that the groundwork of a good education—the ability to read and write correctly—is neglected. Let the education reform begin at the bottom in the primary and grammar grades and work up to the top.

From this we can conclude that well paid and well trained school officials and teachers, satisfactory environments, compulsory attendance and modern methods do not furnish practical well trained brains in the student body. That education still rests on the old fashioned, homely foundation of self-centered concentration. In other words, "You may lead the horse to water, but you can't make him drink."

Late Cauliflower.

We usually get our best and whitest cauliflowers late in the season. It is not much to their liking. Is it always possible to protect the heads from full exposure to the sun rays. Break two or three of the leaves next to the head (inside) at about the middle, folding the outer halves over the head, or pin or tie some of the big leaves over the head from directly striking the pure white head! Otherwise it may soon become spotted and worthless.

GRAVEYARDS ARE SOON TO BECOME PLAYGROUNDS

Philadelphia Pastors Approve Plan to Have Children Use Homes of Dead.

In Philadelphia the children will play in the churchyards. That has been decided upon, and many ministers give their accord. Terrible? Not at all. Those who know the children and their need of play say the churchyards will never be desecrated by the happiness of the little ones. "Let them play in the graveyards. It will save many little lives," they say.

With just a little reflection one can grasp the advantages of a graveyard as a playground. What rare games of leap frog can be played over the tombstones. Hide and seek will be popular, and what does it matter if a freckled face boy is tagged "it" on the top of a jurist's monument? The jurist peacefully sleeping beneath will not object. Rather he will take it in good part if he knows about it. Who objects to a little one having fun?

The directors of the Playgrounds association think the old graveyards of the city should be utilized as playgrounds. Many children now have no place for sport, they say. It is difficult to provide this space in the congested districts. Several ministers have approved the plan, and it is supposed that it will be carried into effect.

The idea follows efforts of playgrounds directors to get more breathing spots for the people of the congested city center.

According to Executive Secretary William D. Champlin of the recreation bureau, the idea is not to attempt to utilize the big burying grounds, but merely those small areas where for the most part interments have long since ceased and being situated in centers, would prove welcome breathing spots.

SEPARATE STORE FOR STOCK THAT BECOMES INFERIOR

Grocer Finds Outlet For Goods Which Perish on His Hands.

"It is of cardinal importance in my business," a groceryman of this city remarked, "to have an outlet for my oversupply of perishable goods. By this I mean an additional store which will take the vegetables that are left over and those not in perfect condition."

"When I started in this business I had but one store. Although I was a careful, conservative buyer in green goods I found that no matter how prudent and how calculating I might be many times great quantities of vegetables remained unsold, eating up all the profits of the part which I had disposed of. Indeed, the loss on them often exceeded the profits on those sold. I attempted to remedy this by purchasing small quantities. But on numerous occasions I ran woefully short. I thought over several remedies, but they all had some shortcomings. At length I hit on a scheme which proved to be feasible. It required a partner. I had little trouble in securing a practical, hard worker.

"The next thing was to get a paying store in a suitable location. My store was in a wealthy neighborhood, where only the perfect goods could be offered for sale.

"I found a store that met my requirements except that perhaps I could not make a large profit, but it prospered. From the opening day my losses on wilted greens and leftover canned goods with torn and stained labels ceased. Now, whenever I have any of this sort of goods, I simply transfer it to the second store, where it is sold at a reduction."—Chicago Tribune.

WIDE AWAKE KANSAS TOWN.

Residents of Colony Warned to Clean Up Their Premises.

Colony, Kan., is a town that should be considered an object lesson in town government. If one imagines that Colony is asleep, like many other small towns, only read a recent number of the Colony Free Press, wherein there appears this item. It will give one a new viewpoint of things outside one's own township:

Citizens of Colony who do not have their hogpens, manure piles and closets cleaned up and in a sanitary condition are hereby notified that the same will be done by the city and charged up against the property on the tax rolls.

Cows will have to be placed in the hands of attendants, who will not allow them to stroll about the lawns and gardens in the resident districts. Each complaint of this nature by any of our people will be promptly attended to.

Chickens must be kept penned up or the city ordinance and its attendant fine will be invoked.

If necessary the services of the state health officer will be employed to clean up some of the residences on the outskirts.

By order of the mayor and councilmen, city of Colony, Kan.

Tulips Bloom More Than One Year. Some authorities contend that tulips in local gardens have no value and give no returns after the first year of planting. This depends largely on conditions as made by the planter. If put down deep enough in ideal soil it is certain good flowers may be obtained the second and perhaps succeeding years. Some flowers are as large in size and as long of stem in the second year as they were the first year. The number of bulbs flowering is somewhat less however.

The hunting season for deer is now on. Law on deer went off at midnight, Tuesday.

The lumber cut in Maine the coming season will be very large according to reports from different sections of the State.

Woman's World

Mrs. Harriet Johnston Wood Wants to Be Judge.

MRS. HARRIET JOHNSTON WOOD.

Mrs. Harriet Johnston Wood, a practicing lawyer, of New York City, is seeking appointment as judge in the children's court. In a recent interview Mrs. Wood said: "There is a movement inaugurated by the clubwomen of New York city to have a law passed making the appointment of women mandatory in this court."

"The understanding of children is instinctive with women, and such knowledge as they are not born with they acquire through experience. What man can compare his judgment in a case affecting the welfare of a child with that of a woman?"

According to the annual report of the court of special sessions for the year 1912, 13,422 children were charged with juvenile delinquency and 1,849 were sentenced to the children's courts. Of these the majority were boys. The report shows further that most of the girls who were brought before the court, during that period were from fourteen to sixteen years of age.

Horse Trot and Fish Walk Now. Vale the turkey trot and the tango. Society is a-weary of these much discussed dances, and, having lost favor, the trot and the tango are on the road to the realm of the forgotten.

"The horse trot" and the still newer "fish walk" are the prime favorites of the present moment, and earnest seekers are putting themselves through both paces. Both dances originated in Washington, the horse trot more than a year ago and the fish walk within the last few months.

The horse trot is a livelier dance than either the tango or the turkey trot and is entirely devoid of the characteristics which brought upon the two one time favorites the thunders of the clergy and the pandering laity. In this newest trot the partners face each other and the man places his right hand in the center of his partner's back, holding her at arm's length and at one side. He looks over her right shoulder and she directs her gaze over his right shoulder. The dance starts with a running step of eight counts, the man going forward. The dancers then proceed to trot back eight steps, the woman advancing, after which alternately they trot eight steps to the right and eight to the left before they sidestep sixteen counts, turning to the right for eight counts and to the left for eight. A trot forward and back for eight counts each before coming to a balance step of sixteen counts completes the dance.

The horse trot and fish walk are primarily dances for young men and women. They are dashed at a lively tempo in two-four measure, and fatiguing degeneration of the heart or an impaired breathing apparatus is entirely out of place when the new dance tunes start. The fish walk, the intricacies of which are now engaging the energies of dancing at the national capital, starts with a skipping step, and then goes forward sixteen counts, and returning sixteen counts. The partners then take four sliding steps to the right and four to the left to complete the dances.

The fish walk is danced entirely on the toes, the body is moved only from the waist downward, the head is held high, and the tempo is pitched at a lively gait. The music runs along to a straight simple tune, gay and cheery, with little of the syncopation which has distinguished the dance music of the last few years.

A Good Idea. Serial stories can be taken out and bound. Any one who understands book-binding can get really beautiful books in this way. But the woman who does not understand this art can cover pieces of pasteboard a little larger than the magazine pages with cloth, carefully folded over and pasted down on the wrong side about the edges, the inside of the cover made neat by a square of cloth or paper pasted over the edges of the covers with half a dozen holes edges can be fastened together over the story by means of silk cords run through neat corresponding holes in the pages of the story.

Profitable Begging. "Mr. Scribble," called out the old millionaire, "I see you received 150 begging letters yesterday, and every one had a two cent stamp inclosed for a reply."

"Yes, sir."

"Well, answer them evasively on postal cards and encourage them to write again."—Exchange.

Colic In Horses. Horses should not take colic from eating corn if you gradually accustom them to it's feed and allow it in the ear form. Horses have to eat corn of the cob which take it in smaller mouthfuls and chew it more thoroughly than when fed shelled corn. Ground feed is always liable to cause colic.

Our School Interests.

More Trained Teachers. In the public elementary schools of Maine last year there were employed as teachers 2,074 graduates of professional training schools. This is an increase of 200 over the preceding year.

School Repeaters. In Maine schools last year 4,291 children were repeating the work of a grade. Of this number the great majority, 2,396 were boys. These figures emphasize the importance of individual instruction and other means which will prevent the educational and economic waste that must follow an unnecessary repetition of school work. At the Conference of School Superintendents held at Castine in July, various methods of preventing this waste were under discussion and a number of superintendents explained how they were dealing with the problem in their own communities.

48,000 Children In Country Schools. Last year Maine enrolled a little more than 48,000 children in one room country schools. Somewhat more than 45,000 were registered in the village schools of the State, while approximately 32,000 attended city schools. An interesting feature of the returns was how these children were distributed in the several grades. 31,000 were in ungraded schools, 10,000 in the first grade, 18,000 in the second, 10,000 in the third, 10,000 in the fourth, 10,000 in the fifth, 10,000 in the sixth, 10,000 in the seventh, 10,000 in the eighth, 10,000 in the ninth, 10,000 in the tenth, 10,000 in the eleventh, 10,000 in the WEST MINOT.

Man Found Shot. Sheriff Stevens and Coroner Doe of Auburn went to West Minot, Wednesday, to investigate the death of Nathan Downing at that place, whose dead body was found at noon in the woods near his camp.

Downing's body was found by Chas. Allen at a point about 90 feet from the highway and 70 feet from the camp in which the dead man lived. Downing lay face down upon the ground, his arms folded under his body and his black hat on the ground about 18 feet away. Beside him was a Hopkins N. Allen shot gun with a loaded cartridge in the chamber, while there was an empty shell a short distance away.

The fact that there were many broken bottles upon the trees in the vicinity where the body was found and that one broken one was still perched upon a tree leads to the theory that Downing was in the habit of engaging target practice at that point, using bottles for targets and that, possibly, he was accidentally shot in this way.

Schools Fail in Fundamentals.

Several hundred graduates from colleges in the class of 1913, both men and women, when put to the test by Edward Bok, of the Ladies' Home Journal, showed a startling inability to write a simple, intelligent business letter. The young men failed a trifle better than the young women, but after sixteen years of schooling, the results in grammar, spelling, punctuation and quality of English, were as a whole exceedingly bad. About a dozen theses were obtained, and while, in some cases, these had been marked 100 by the college instructors, in each one of these perfect theses there were not fewer than six misspelled words, and in three cases over a dozen misspelled words. In an article in the Outlook, under the title "The College Making Good?" Mr. Bok is compelled, with these letters before him, to give a negative answer.

The test reveals a weakness, not simply of our colleges, but also of our whole educational system. Indeed, we should say that this particular weakness is primarily of grammar and high schools or preparatory schools, rather than of the college. If a child doesn't learn how to spell and punctuate and observe the simple rules of grammar in the earlier years of school life, there is no great likelihood that he will learn later. One-third of those who wrote Mr. Bok would not have received a passing mark in English in a high school test. The trouble is that our grammar and high schools are so loaded with a succession of facts and impractical subjects, that the groundwork of a good education—the ability to read and write correctly—is neglected. Let the education reform begin at the bottom in the primary and grammar grades and work up to the top.

From this we can but conclude that well paid and well trained school officials and teachers, sanitary environments, compulsory attendance and modern methods do not furnish practical well trained brains in the student body. That education still rests on the old fashioned home foundation of self-centered concentration. In other words, "You may lead the horse to water, but you can't make him drink."

Late Cauliflower.

We usually get our best and whitest cauliflowers late in the season. Hot sun is not much to their liking. It is always well to protect the heads from full exposure to the sun rays. Break two or three of the leaves next to the head (inside) at about the middle, folding the outer halves over the head, or pin or tie some of the big leaves over the head tent fashion. Anything to keep the hot sun from directly striking the pure white head! Otherwise it may soon become spotted and worthless.

GRAVEYARDS ARE SOON TO BECOME PLAYGROUNDS

Philadelphia Pastors Approve Plan to Have Children Use Homes of Dead.

In Philadelphia the children will play in the churchyards. That has been decided upon, and many ministers give their accord. Terrible? Not at all. Those who know the children and their need of play say the churchyards will never be desecrated by the happiness of the little ones. "Let them play in the graveyards. It will save many little lives," they say.

With just a little reflection one can grasp the advantages of a graveyard as a playground. What rare games of leap frog can be played over the tombstones. Hide and seek will be popular, and what does it matter if a freckled face boy is tagged "it" on the top of a jurist's monument? The jurist peacefully sleeping beneath will not object. Rather he will take it in good part if he knows about it. Who objects to a little one having fun?

The directors of the Playgrounds association think the old graveyards of the city should be utilized as playgrounds. Many children now have no place for sport, they say. It is difficult to provide this space in the congested districts. Several ministers have approved the plan, and it is supposed that the idea will be carried into effect.

The idea follows efforts of playground directors to get more breathing spots for the people of the congested city center.

According to Executive Secretary William D. Champlin of the recreation bureau, the idea is not to attempt to utilize the big burying grounds, but merely those small areas where for the most part interments have long since ceased and being situated in centers, would prove welcome breathing spots.

SEPARATE STORE FOR STOCK THAT BECOMES INFERIOR

Grocer Finds Outlet For Goods Which Perish on His Hands.

"It is of cardinal importance in my business," a groceryman of this city remarked, "to have an outlet for any oversupply of perishable goods. By this I mean an additional store which will take the vegetables that are left over and those not in perfect condition."

"When I started in this business I had but one store. Although I was a careful, conservative buyer in green goods I found that no matter how prudent and how calculating I might be, many times great quantities of vegetables remained unsold, eating up all the profits of the part which I had disposed of. Indeed, the loss on them often exceeded the profits on those sold."

"I attempted to remedy this by purchasing small quantities. But on numerous occasions I ran woefully short. I thought over several remedies, but they all had some shortcoming. At length I hit on a scheme which proved to be feasible. It required a partner. I had little trouble in securing a practical, hard worker."

"The next thing was to get a paying store in a suitable location. My store was in a wealthy neighborhood, where only the perfect goods could be offered for sale. "I found a store that met my requirements except that perhaps I could not make a large profit, but it prospered."

"From the opening day my losses on wilted greens and leftover canned goods with torn and stained labels ceased. Now, whenever I have any of this sort of goods, I simply transfer it to the second store, where it is sold at a reduction."—Chicago Tribune.

WIDE AWAKE KANSAS TOWN.

Residents of Colony Warned to Clean Up Their Premises.

Colony, Kan., is a town that should be considered an object lesson in town government. If one imagines that Colony is asleep, like many other small towns, only read a recent number of the Colony Free Press, wherein there appears this item. It will give one a new viewpoint of things outside his own township:

Citizens of Colony who do not have their hogpens, manure piles and closets cleaned up and in a sanitary condition are hereby notified that the same will be done by the city and charged up against the property on the tax rolls.

Cows will have to be placed in the hands of attendants, who will not allow them to stroll about the lawns and gardens in the resident districts. Each complaint of this nature by any of our people will be promptly attended to.

Chickens must be kept penned up or the city ordinance and its attendant fine will be invoked.

If necessary the services of the state health officer will be employed to clean up some of the residences on the outskirts.

By order of the mayor and councilmen, city of Colony, Kan.

Tulips Bloom More Than One Year.

Some authorities contend that tulips in local gardens have no value and give no returns after the first year of planting. This depends largely on conditions as made by the planter. If put down deep enough in ideal soil it is certain good flowers may be obtained the second and perhaps succeeding years. Some flowers are as large in size and as long of stem in the second year as they were the first year. The number of bulbs flowering is somewhat less however.

The hunting season for deer is now on. Law on deer went off at midnight, Tuesday.

Mrs. Harriet Johnston Wood Wants to Be Judge.

MRS. HARRIET JOHNSTON WOOD.

Mrs. Harriet Johnston Wood, a practicing lawyer, of New York city, is seeking appointment as judge in the children's court. In a recent interview Mrs. Wood said: "There is a movement inaugurated by the clubwomen of New York city to have a law passed making the appointment of women mandatory in this court."

"The understanding of children is instinctive with women, and such knowledge as they are not born with they acquire through experience. What man can have his judgment in a case affecting the welfare of a child with that of a woman?"

According to the annual report of the court of special sessions for the year 1912, 13,422 children were charged with juvenile delinquency and arraigned in the special proceedings in the children's courts. Of these the majority were boys. The report shows further that most of the girls who were brought before the court during that period were from fourteen to sixteen years of age.

Horse Trot and Fish Walk Now. Vale the turkey trot and the tango. Society is weary of these much discussed dances, and, having lost favor, the trot and the tango are on the road to the realm of the forgotten.

The "horse trot" and the still newer "fish walk" are the prime favorites of the present moment, and earnest seekers after the latest approved novelty are putting themselves through both paces. Both dances originated in Washington, the horse trot more than a year ago and the fish walk within the last few months.

The horse trot is a livelier dance than either the tango or the turkey trot and is entirely devoid of the characteristics which brought upon the two one time favorites the thunders of the clergy and the non-dancing laity. In this newest trot the partners face each other and the man places his right hand in the center of his partner's back, holding her at arm's length and at one side. He looks over her right shoulder and she directs her gaze over his right shoulder. The dance starts with a running step of eight counts, the man going forward. The dancers then proceed to trot back eight steps. The woman advancing, after which alternately they trot eight steps to the right and eight to the left before they sidestep sixteen counts, turning to the right for eight counts and to the left for eight. A trot forward and back for eight counts each before coming to a balance step of sixteen counts completes the dance.

The horse trot and fish walk are primarily dances for young men and women. They are dashed at a lively tempo in two-four measure, and fast degeneration of the heart or an impaired breathing apparatus is entirely out of place when the new dances start. The fish walk, the intricacies of which are now engaging the energies of dancing at the national capital, starts with a skipping step, the man going forward sixteen counts and retreating sixteen counts. The partners then take four sliding steps to the right and four to the left to complete the dances.

The fish walk is danced entirely on the toes, the body is moved only from the waist downward, the head is held high, and the tempo is pitched at a lively gait. The music runs along to a straight simple tune, gay and cheery, with little of the syncopation which has distinguished the dance music of the last few years.

A Good Idea. Serial stories can be taken out and bound. Any one who understands book-binding can get really beautiful books in this way. But the woman who does not understand this art can cover pieces of pasteboard a little larger than the magazine page with cloth, carefully folded over and pasted down on the wrong side about the edges, the inside of the cover made neat by a square of cloth or paper pasted over the edges of the covering of the other side. Two of these covers with half a dozen holes punched half an inch from the back edges can be fastened together over the story by means of silk cords run through neat corresponding holes in the pages of the story.

The lumber cut in Maine the coming season will be very large according to reports from different sections of the State.

Our School Interests.

More Trained Teachers. In the public elementary schools of Maine last year there were employed as teachers 2,074 graduates of professional training schools. This is an increase of 200 over the preceding year.

School Repeaters. In Maine schools last year 4,291 children were repeating the work of a grade. Of this number the great majority 2,396 were boys. These figures emphasize the importance of individual instruction and other means which will prevent the educational and economic waste that must follow an unnecessary repetition of school work. At the Conference of School Superintendents held at Castine in July, various methods of preventing this waste were under discussion and a number of superintendents explained how they were dealing with the problem in their own communities.

48,600 Children In Country Schools. Last year Maine enrolled a little more than 48,600 children in one room country schools. Somewhat more than 45,000 were in the village schools of the State, while approximately 33,000 attended city schools. An interesting feature of the returns made by the local superintendents shows how these children were distributed in the several grades. 31,000 were in ungraded schools. Of those in the graded schools 18,000 were in the first grade of the primary school. This number gradually diminished up to the 9th grade which showed a registration of about 4,700. In the 1st grade there were 7,000 more boys than girls while in the 9th grade the girls outnumbered the boys, 250. The tendency of boys to leave school at an earlier age than girls is strikingly indicated by these statistics which emphasize the necessity of increased efforts on the part of school authorities to provide courses that will appeal as profitable to older boys.

Teaching Positions in Maine. According to figures just compiled in the office of the State superintendent of schools it is found that during the last school year there were 4,832 different teaching positions in the public elementary schools of Maine. Of these 315 were required to be filled by men teachers. As an indication of the unstable character of the position of teacher it should be noted that 503 different men teachers were employed in the year, while 6,435 different women were employed to fill the 4,517 places open to women teachers in elementary schools. Since 2,264 teachers occupied the same positions for the entire year it would be stated that practically few of the schools of Maine were subjected to enormous changes during the year. In commenting on these figures State Superintendent Smith expresses the opinion that schools are generally far less profitable when such changes are frequent than they are when a reasonable permanent teaching force.

"Yes, sir." "Well, answer them evasively on postal cards and encourage them to write again."—Exchange.

Colts In Horses. Horses should not take colts from their corn if they gradually accustom them to the feed and allow it in the corn field. Where horses have to eat corn of the cob they take it in smaller mouthfuls and chew it more thoroughly than when fed shelled corn. Ground feed is always liable to cause colic.

Birthday Party.

On the afternoon of Sept. 27, Mrs. George Forbes gave a birthday party for her four year son, George. The mothers, children and friends present were:

Mrs. Horace Noyes, Mrs. E. J. Thompson, Mrs. Charles McGinnis, Mrs. George Jordan, Mrs. Jerry Farrar, Mrs. Ralph Buckman, Mrs. James Farrum, Mrs. A. C. Jackson, Mrs. Carl Dudley, Gertrude Bolster, Ismay Jackson, Florence Farrar, Iona Farrum, Thelma Farrum, Kenneth McGinnis, Lorraine Griffin, Pearl Dudley, Hazen Emery, Helen Farrar, Ruth Forbes.

A delightful half hour was spent by the children opening the birthday presents of games, books, and other trifles, perfume, necktie, mugs and plate. After which the children spent the day in out door games and the older ones in social conversation.

In the afternoon refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, cake, lemonade, candy and nuts were served and music by the graphophone was enjoyed by the children.

When the hour came for leave taking Mr. Forbes took a picture of the group and all wished little George many congratulations of the day and assuring him that all had a pleasant time.

Kenneth Hathaway of Rumford Falls was in town Saturday.

George Judkins is endeavoring to raise funds for repairing the church, North Woodstock.

Duke Thompson has finished work in the Dearborn pool mill and taken up studies at Hebron Academy.

E. J. Thompson and George Forbes are putting up an 18x32 building to be used for a work shop and carriage house.

Mrs. Charles G. Hill.

Mrs. Charlotte Wallis, the beloved wife of Charles G. Hill, passed away Tuesday, Sept. 23, about 11 o'clock, after a lingering illness of seven months, aged 44 years, 7 months and 24 days.

She was born in Canada, but the most of her life was lived in Worcester, Mass. She married Mr. Hill Sept. 23, 1908, and came here to our village, where she has been a devoted wife and a dearly loved friend of everyone.

She was a member of the Baptist church in Worcester, Mass., and a member of Jefferson Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, here, in which she took much interest. The Order went in a body to her funeral. Flowers were sent in abundance. Interment was in Lakeside cemetery.

She leaves a heartbroken husband and one brother, David Waite of Fair Haven, Mass. Rev. E. H. Stover, pastor of the Baptist church, spoke comforting words to the mourning friends.

Mrs. Abby Dunham continues very feeble.

Mrs. Lucinda Rowe is visiting her sister in Biddeford.

Percy Bowker of Wakefield is at his father's, J. L. Bowker.

Mrs. J. L. Bowker is visiting her sons, Irvin and Willie, in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hill of Woodland will come and live with his father.

The supper Tuesday night for the benefit of the sidewalk fund was well patronized.

Vera A. Perkins of Salem, Mass., is spending a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Lee M. Rowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs of Portland were week-end guests of his sister, Mrs. Ada Briggs Swan.

Emily J. Felt, who was at Rumford, was called home by the death of Mrs. Charles G. Hill, Thursday.

Mont C. Hill and wife with Mrs. Gray and son of Old Orchard were at "Hillside" a few days last week.

Carl Dudley and Dr. Bucknam have moved their families in the store vacated by Mrs. Edith Bryan.

Dr. Bucknam, Dr. Deering and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bartlett went to Mt. Zion Monday afternoon, by auto. They enjoyed the ride very much.

Ellsworth Hill of Woodland and Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Hill of Portland were here to the funeral of their stepmother.

They returned to their homes, Sunday.

Mrs. A. M. Chase returned home last Thursday from a few weeks' visit in Vermont. Her son, Ted, returned from Italy the same day. He is now spending a little time at his father's.

WATERFORD.

Efficiency Begets Prosperity

The New England Lines are OWNED and DIRECTED by New Englanders.

The railroad has the greatest stake of all in the future of New England.

It has invested $140,000,000 that it may be efficient in its work of upbuilding New England.

To prosper, your railroad must always LEAD the fight for YOUR prosperity.

Tobacco Should be Smoked Up As Soon as it's Cut Up

Then it is bound to be fresh—to smoke cool and sweet—because the natural moisture hasn't a chance to escape. That's the reason experienced smokers stick to the good old Sickle plug—slice off a fresh pipeful as they need it—and get all the original flavor and fragrance that have been pressed in the plug, and kept there by the natural leaf wrapper.

These smokers could save a minute's time by getting their tobacco already cut up—but they know it would also be dried up, would burn fast and bite their tongues.

You'll find solid satisfaction in smoking Sickle. And you'll get more tobacco, because there is no package to pay for. Your dealer sells Sickle.

Mrs. Sarah Ladd has moved her stock of goods from the front of the building occupied for many years by Alonzo Lewis.

Wallace R. Tarbox and wife returned from Chattanooga, Tenn., Tuesday where they went to the National Convention G. A. R.

Mrs. George Hammonds died Wednesday night, the funeral was held Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Hammonds had been in poor health for years. She leaves a husband and two daughters.

The Portland Press says, "Maine was honored at the National Convention in Chattanooga by having two National officers, Mrs. Wallace Reed Tarbox, past department president and Mrs. S. A. Sted of Bangor, who was elected on Council of administration and W. L. Rose of Pittsfield was elected National Junior Vice Commander. Both of these honors were very pleasing to the Maine delegation and when Mrs. Tarbox was elected without one delegate from her state to legislate or assist her and with many aspirants for the office, it was very evident that her brilliant efforts and grand work for the order were appreciated by the National body. The Chattanooga papers paid Mrs. Tarbox many fine compliments.

In bankruptcy, Edward E. Gould, Rumford, Liabilities, $404.05; assets, none listed. F. W. Blanchard, Rumford, attorney.

In Interest of the Apples.

G. A. Yeaton of the University of Maine has through personal correspondence with the leading apple growers of the country compiled the probable crop for 1913 which by states is as follows:

Arkansas, 45 per cent.; California, 40 per cent.; Colorado, 56 per cent.; Connecticut, 62; Delaware, 23 per cent.; Illinois, 72 per cent.; Indiana, 65 per cent.; Iowa, 50 per cent.; Kansas, 20 per cent.; Kentucky, 100 per cent.; Maine, 25 per cent.; Maryland, 26 per cent.; Massachusetts, 47 per cent.; Michigan, 25 per cent.; Mississippi, 35 per cent.; Nebraska, 21 per cent.; New Hampshire, 15 per cent.; New Jersey, 45 per cent.; New York, 50 per cent.; North Carolina, 17 per cent.; Ohio, 30 per cent.; Oregon, 70 per cent.; Pennsylvania, 41 per cent.; Tennessee, 21 per cent.; Utah, 70 per cent.; Vermont, 15 per cent.; Virginia, 33; Washington, 63; West Virginia, 6 per cent.; Ontario, 50 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 40 per cent.

It is difficult to obtain reliable statistics of this kind but in our opinion the figures given in the above table are fairly reliable.

Assuming that these figures are nearly correct, we can reasonably expect a good price for our fruit this year.

HEBRON.

Foul Play Suspected.

Four cows belonging to W. H. Packard of East Hebron died from poison which is thought to have been given them with evil intent.

When Mr. Packard went to the pasture Saturday evening to drive the cows in he found one in a dying condition. Sunday morning another was found dead in the barn. A third died at noon and the fourth was found in a dying condition in the pasture Monday evening.

Dr. G. R. Ing of Auburn was called. He opened two of the cows and after examination gave the cause of death as poisoning, and the agent a liquid poison. The pasture was carefully searched but no trace of poison was discovered. The cows had not been outside the pasture this summer. It is thought some one may have given them the poison although no cause for such an act is known.

Miss E. H. Miller is the famous Story Lady of the Chicago Tribune and is widely known for her impersonations of children, that of her Mother Goose alone making her notable.

Mrs. Elvira S. Randall.

Mrs. Elvira S. Randall, widow of John P. Randall, died at South Poland Friday Sept. 19th, her death coming as a shock to her friends, for although she had not been well for some time the end came suddenly.

She was born in Portland Feb. 19th, 1839, the daughter of Eli and Elmira (Hood) Sargent.

Mrs. Randall was a woman of strong character, although quiet and devoted to her home and family, she was of great assistance in the charitable organizations with which she was affiliated and her gentle, helpful, quiet, influence was felt in any circle in which she moved.

She was a member of the St. Laurence Cong. Parish, an earnest worker and devoted parishioner and she was as loyal in her friendships as in her church and family life.

Mrs. Randall leaves eight children, Mrs. Henry F. Merrill, Mrs. Wm. N. Taylor, Mrs. Grace E. Randall of Portland; Mrs. John D. Ball of Montreal; Mrs. Harry Lothrop, Clifford S. and Ernest A. Randall of Portland and John H. Randall of Harrison.

Three sisters and one brother survive her Mrs. Jos. P. Randall of Lynn, Mass., Mrs. C. C. Randall of Hamilton, N. Y., Sargent of Portland and Mrs. Clara Morgan of South Dakota.

Mrs. Randall was one of the directors of the Mary Broom Home and was also on the board of management of the Home for Aged Women.

The funeral was held at her residence, 33 Eastern Promenade, Portland, Sept. 22nd, conducted by Rev. Snowden of St. Laurence Church.

There were many beautiful floral tributes. Her husband was John E. F. Randall who ran the coal business of Randall & McAllister.

The Family Cough Medicine.

In every home there should be a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, ready for immediate use when any member of the family contracts a cold or a cough. Prompt use will stop the spread of sickness.

S. A. Sted of Bangor, Mich. writes: "My whole family depends upon Dr. King's New Discovery as the best cough and cold medicine in the world."

Two 50c bottles cured me of "pneumonia." Thousands of other families have equally benefited and depend entirely upon Dr. King's New Discovery to cure their coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles. Every dose helps. Price 50c and $1.00. All druggists. H. B. Bucklen & Co., Philadelphia or St. Louis. 40-42.

Probably it is a great relief to those Oxford mining promoters to learn by the Judge's decision that "they are victims of their own mining inexperience—and, therefore, not responsible for stockholders' losses."

WEST PARIS.

A Family Reunion.

A very pleasant family reunion was enjoyed at the home of James R. Tucker last Monday, the occasion being the birthday of Mrs. Tucker.

Those present at dinner were her brothers, Bibbs Benson of New Gloucester and Rev. C. Benson and his wife, and sister, Mrs. Mary A. Doe Campbell and sister, Mrs. Ida Field and grandson David Spufford, of South Paris, Mrs. Kate Doe of Paris and her son and wife, Benj. Doe of Portland, Mrs. Emma Barrett of Sumner, Mrs. Abbie Love and husband of North Paris, making all the brothers and sisters present except Julia, who lives in California.

Others present were Mrs. Tucker's daughter, Ruth from Portland and Eva who lives at home and Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Bates.

The birthday cake was made by Mrs. Lowe and decorated by her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Benj. Lowe, of North Paris and was quite fabulous in its decorations. The cake itself was about 12 by 17 inches, frosted in white, with a large cornucopia shaped cake frosted in pink laid on top and decorated with fresh fruit of all kinds and candles, tastefully arranged with the cake. The cake was eaten, and around, all autumn leaf paper, the whole indicating the harvest time of the year and the sweetness and plentiful years of life.
